T. V. Bermingham, the Wykagyl champion, who consistently does the difficult course under 80, had to be satisfied.

Rarely has the uncertainty of golf been demonstrated more convincingly than at Wykagyl yesterday. Men who consider themselves away off form if they fail to do better than 82 or 83 they fail to do better than 82 or 83 they fail to do better than 82 or 83 twere dazed when it was all over to find that their scores flirted coyly with figures in the high 90's, and even worse. Four sixteens qualified and weak tap to short field.

Ambrose, the Marrone Stable's entry for the second race, received a most in different ride from Jockey Ball, who permitted the son of Disguise to run wild and wide at the stretch turn after having the race carefully packed away in the bosom of his buy shirt.

Ambrose being thus jockeyed out of his chance to win the event, H. Neustater's bay colt Good Counsel, always a contender, praneed down the stretch with creditable speed and took the race away from Cliff Haven, the Crown Stable entry, by a length. Safe Home was third, and Ambrose, messed all over the place, finished a bad last.
